

World Energy Council – Germany Secondment Programme

Join our Berlin team and represent the German energy system at the World Energy Council!

Who can join?

The secondment programme is open to members and partners. Ideal candidates have knowledge and experience in energy economics or policy.

What do you get?

Candidates increase their understanding of global energy systems in an international environment and enjoy integration into our (inter)national network and the WEC community.

When?

Start time and duration are variable. Assignment periods are typically between 12-24 months, but can also be project-specific.

Sponsors

Sponsoring companies enjoy the personal and professional development of the assigned individual.

Are you interested? Write us to find out more: info@weltenergierat.de